Access to the most important information with just one click: the new Insight database from Ceresana Research offers useful, fundamental information on plastics, chemicals, and additives.

The informative portal currently encompasses three areas:

- The Products section includes basic information, hazard indications, and application examples for the most important plastics, as well as antioxidants, fillers, and pigments.
- The Company section provides company profiles with helpful information on the most important manufacturers and processors of chemicals and raw materials: from individual contact addresses to key company figures, and from product portfolios and production facilities to company structure and the most up to date company news.
- The Country section offers the most valuable economic data on 64 nations throughout the world: from gross domestic product to raw material supplies, and from exports to energy consumption.

This collection of information also incorporates a glossary, which explains the most important terms and provides ranking lists of the various countries.
